

This ever-growing population
Is a burden on our Nation
It will belittle our resources
And defeat nature's forces
We are but only minions
If we have uncontrolled millions
How will we be able to feed
Its a grave problem indeed
How to provide shelter
All running helter-skelter
No work, no livelihood no medicare
Our systems cannot really fare
Think of the gigantic pollution
Caused by this huge explosion
Mother earth has its limitation
It will have unending ramification
No food, no home, no job, no joy
The country will collapse, oh boy!
Let us stop the nonsense
And use some of our sense
A family even small is beautiful
And fellow-humans we have bountiful
Let us make it our mission
To control the monster of population
Come friends, let us make a choice
And make everyone re-joyce!

POPULATION

- bane or boon?

Let's talk about - INDIA'S POPULATION - bane or boon?

Introduction : Today, Population is important in the development of a country. It always matters. In this essay we discuss about India's population on world map. If population is more, then the development of the country will be less. There are some countries which have more than one billion people. Population is the biggest problem affecting these countries.

India's Population : According to the 2011 data India's population is 1.241 billion & the highest population in the world is in China which is 1.34 billion.

India is a country with the second highest population. We should reduce India's population. The scope of living in India is becoming difficult. Because there are no jobs here. Some problems faced in India because of our huge population are :

(1) Education : is extremely important for the development of a country. Some parents have so many children they can't afford to give them education. If population is less then everyone can get education.

(2) Jobs : If population is more then we can't get good jobs. Because people are more & jobs are less.

There is no good future in India. Sometimes in India educated people work on less salary because they can't get a good opportunity according to their skills.

(3) Living : If population is more, then living space will be less. In metro cities population is more so people live in small flats or they live on footpath.

(4) Food : If population is more then there will be shortage of food. We can't afford the expenses as "Rich persons being more rich & poor persons being more poor."

India's Population on World map : According to other countries of the world India is a under-developed country because of its large population. The growth of India is less because of its population.

The countries which have less population density like USA have good growth.

A large population creates so many problems that Indians can't get any good opportunities.

In the next few years India will have the highest population in the world. There is no bright future in India. It is the main reason behind poverty.

Some people follow the old traditions and have a number of children, thus adding to the problem.

Control on this Population : Looking at the steady increase in the population we must control it. Indian government should work on it. But the main reason of the increase in the population is that there is no strict law about this.

There is only one strict rule for government employees. If any government employee has more than two children then he/she will be suspended.

Currently in India the government should be serious about this issue. A slogan like "Hum do Hamaare do" is running in India. But it is not being followed much.

Summary : We should try to slow down the growth of population on our own. Because it's our country. Jai Hind, Jai Bharat.

Pooja Kothari, MCA IIIrd Sem.

Disadvantages of a large population :

- It causes unemployment.
- Traffic congestions & pollution.
- Inflation in prices of all goods & services because demand is more than supply.
- Increase in corruption & crime.
- Population is the reason behind the slow growth of our nation and power shortages.
- If the population is under control then automatically our nation's growth will increase and we will be able to provide better education to all and reduce unemployment as much as possible.

Let's talk about - INDIA'S POPULATION - bane or boon?

Several students were inspired to write about the Topic. While some wrote very simple essays, a few of them had interesting points to make.

Hear is a Pick of their ideas.....

- India's large population affects our country's development.
– Harshita Chauhan, MCA IIIrd Semester
- Increasing population and lessening resources encourages bias against girls and women
– Twinkle Kumawat, MCA IIIrd Semester
- Rising Population is a serious concern and it can't be left untouched.
– Neha Khan, MCA IIIrd Semester
- The Kedarnath Tragedy is an example of the pressures put on the natural resources by our huge population.
– Priyanka Bohara, MCA Vth Semester
- Public surveys like census should be utilized to educate people about the disadvantages of unchecked rise in population. As unemployment increases due to our large population, youth gets distracted to indulge in unlawful activities.
– A Student
- Future population growth in India has to be related with the resources base in order to have sustainable development.
– Heena Paliwal, MCA IIIrd Semester
- Educating women can be an important step in the direction of population control
– Sunita Devi, MCA Vth Semester
- It is necessary to bring a major change in social beliefs, to contain ballooning population.
– Kanta Kumawat, MCA Vth Semester

COUNTER VIEW

When given the topic of rising population most of the students have joined the chorus which says that all our problems are a result of our large population.

It is true that an unchecked rise in population puts immense pressure on our resources (which are not limited actually, India being a vast country has a good amount of resources like land, water air etc) and no one can dispute the need to put some kind of a check on this, through persuasion and not by force, off course!

But the question is what about the huge sea of populace which we already have. Are they a burden or can any good be taken out of it.

I believe, that if right policies are followed by our governments, our huge population can be made good use of. Just look at China, utilizing its population it has become the manufacturing hub of the world. We can also emulate this. If proper skills training is imparted, our workers can produce large quantity of goods of all varieties and we can also give tough competition to China.

Our country lacks in Infrastructure. Instead of wasting money in unsustainable social schemes which only produce third quality useless assets, the government can start really big Infrastructure projects. By that, durable Infrastructural assets will be created for our country and a huge amount of employment will also be generated.

Similarly, in agriculture if proper modern scientific methods are used and irrigation facilities, good quality seeds and other inputs are provided, our farmers can turn our country into the leading food grain producer in the world.

On the economic development front too, this large population can prove to be beneficial. After all, a large population also means a large number of consumers. If proper measures are taken, this large number of consumers can provide a sustainable base for economic activities in our country. We can also utilize our numbers to negotiate with MNCs and foreign companies who want to invest in India and get them to invest on terms more suitable to us.

Considering all this, it can be said that if the governments rise above short term vision and implement the right ideas our country's huge population can prove to be a boon and not a bane.

Don't just have career or academic goals.

Set goals to give yourself a balanced, successful life.

I use the word 'balanced' before 'successful'!

Balanced means ensuring your health, relationships, mental peace are all in good order.

There is no point in getting a promotion on the day of your break-up.

There is no fun in driving a car if your back hurts. Shopping is not enjoyable if your mind is full of tensions.

Life is like one of those races in primary school where you have to run with a marble in a spoon kept in your mouth. If the marble falls, there is no point coming first. Same is with life where health and relationships are the marble. Your striving for success is only worth it if there is harmony in your life. Else, you may achieve the success..... but this spark..... this feeling of excitement and being alive, will start to die.

One thing about nurturing the spark..... don't take life too seriously. Life is not meant to be taken too seriously, as we are only temporarily here.

We are like a prepaid card with limited validity. If we are lucky, we may last another 50 years.

And, 50 years is just 2500 weekends

Do we really need to get so worked up?

It's OK.... Take leave from work, fall in love, have your little fights.

We are human beings not programmed devices!

"Don't be serious, be sincere."
